KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
—FOR—
INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
A POTENT REMEDY FOR
Indigestion, Acute and Atonic Dyspepsia, Chronic and Gastro-Intestinal Catarrh, Cholera Infantum, and in convalescence from Acute Diseases.

Over 5,000 physicians have sent to us the most flattering opinions upon Digestylin as a remedy for all diseases arising from improper digestion. For 20 years we have manufactured the Digestive Ferments expressly for PHYSICIANS' use, and for the past year DIGESTYLIN has been by them extensively prescribed, and to-day it stands without a rival as a digestive agent. It is not a secret remedy but a scientific preparation, the formula of which is plainly printed on each bottle. Its great DIGESTIVE POWER is created by a careful and proper treatment of the ferments in manufacture. It is very agreeable to the taste, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach. For the reliability of our statements we would respectfully refer to all Wholesale and Retail Druggists, and PHYSICIANS generally. Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists, or

[illegible] SKIN

EARS AND SCALP COVERED WITH ECZEMATOUS SCABS AND SORES CURED BY CUTICURA.

My little son, aged eight years, has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp, and at times a great portion of the body, ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears, and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress, and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw, like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and was destroyed, until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until his pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him, and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching; but it was no use, he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time, some friends, who had been cured by the Cuticura Remedies, prevailed on me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every article of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned, and is thick and strong, and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies, and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration.

CHARLES McKAY,
Oct. 6, 1885. Peabody, Mass.

I have seen Mr. McKay's boy when badly affected with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know he has tried our best physicians, and did all a father could do for a suffering child, but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made you as regards the curing of his boy by your Cuticura Remedies are true in every particular.

WILLIAM J. McCARTHY,
31 Foster St., Peabody, Mass.

I do not know of any instance in which the Cuticura Remedies have failed to produce satisfactory results. I believe I have sold more of them than of any other skin remedies I have ever handled during the thirty-three years of my experience as a druggist.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi fluid envelop surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelopes the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings, lending to a fatal termination. Sanford's Radical Cure, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, has never failed; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell and taste have been recovered, and the disease thoroughly driven out."

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent, and one improved Inhaler, neatly wrapped in one package, with full directions; price, $1.00.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

Members of the Androscoggin Agricultural Society met in the city council room in Lewiston, Saturday, at 10 A. M. Vice-president Nelson Ham in the chair. Discussions were listened to in the matter of holding a fair, and it was voted to instruct the trustees to hold a county fair next fall, provided arrangements satisfactory to themselves can be made for the same.

Cumberland.

The three-masted schooner Ariadne arrived in Portland, Sunday, from Matanzas, with a heavy cargo of molasses for Geo. S. Hunt & Co.—the first cargo of the season.

Sam Bowles and another colored man named White are in the Portland lock-up. White says that Bowles is the fellow who set fire to the McGlinchy brewery at Cape Elizabeth, years ago.

The liabilities of the Maine Water Gas Company are $8,000, $5,000 of which are owed to the President and Secretary. The assets are small. The company hope to compromise and continue business.

The steamer Texas sailed from Portland, Saturday, for England. She took out a cargo valued at $174,630, the principal articles being 52,961 bushels of wheat, 429,300 pounds of bacon, 45,480 pounds of cheese, 30,000 pounds of lard and 525 boxes of canned meats.

Mr. John Calvin Stevens, of Portland, is completing the details of the Ricker Institute at Houlton, and the plans will be ready for the contractors in the course of a few days. Mr. Stevens expects to commence on the plans of the Hebron Institute within a week or ten days.

The total value of exports from Portland for the last week, amounted to $347,412.31. The principal exports were 1,251,355 feet of lumber, 75,565 bushels of wheat, 4,767 barrels of apples, 1,417,945 pounds of cheese, and 10,000 gallons of kerosene oil. The imports included 115,000 feet of boards, 2,802 bales of rags, 1,857 tubs camphor, 338 bales of bamboo, and 233 cases of merchandise.

Remi d'Estimanville, formerly in the employ of A. W. Arthoine, of Lewiston, was arrested at Portland, Monday morning for stealing two watches, valued at $225, and a chain, which were sold to a Lewiston barber for $25. The thief took the Pullman train at Brunswick that morning and on the arrival of the train was arrested by Detective True. The City Marshal of Lewiston took the prisoner to that city Monday.

A visit to the Diamond Wrench Company's factory Saturday, found that concern—save a man in charge—deserted, and the machinery silent. Creditors are referred to B. W. Verrill, the Canal Bank's attorney, who, the man in charge of the factory said, was getting the accounts together preparatory to adjustment, which it was hoped could be accomplished, next month. This is the concern that Blackstone, the defaulting teller of the Canal Bank, was interested in and supposed to control, and in operating which, many think he lost most of the stolen money.

Kennebec.

Daniel McDavid, of Augusta, was severely kicked in the forehead by a horse on Friday. A bad flesh wound resulted.

Mr. James L. Folsom, of Augusta, is having good success as general secretary of the Gardiner Y. M. C. A. The rooms are nicely furnished.

Mr. Cook, formerly of Vassalboro but more recently connected with a school in New-York, has purchased the residence of Mr. E. L. Norcross in Manchester and will occupy it. The farm is not included in the purchase.

Washington.

A paper has been started in Pembroke, called the Pembroke Item. R. A. Smith is the editor.

The work of breaking up the machinery in the main building of the Pembroke iron works continues. Two cargoes of the iron have been shipped, and the rest will go in the spring.

York.

Capt. Horatio Moody, aged 60 years and 6 months, died in Kennebec, Saturday. Capt. Moody was a well known, competent and esteemed shipmaster, formerly in command of the "Rembrandt," "Longfellow," "Fanny Giffney," and other ships, but retired from the sea some nine years ago, after the death of his two sons, who were lost when his ship's deck was swept by a tidal wave and gale in the Pacific Ocean. His wife recovered from her injuries received at that time and survives him.

The Patrons of Kennebunk dedicated a Grange hall Friday, located in the upper part of the town. The meeting was a very large one; representatives were present from the towns of Buxton, Hollis, Acton, Cornish, Waterborough, and the cities of Saco and Biddeford. It was estimated that there were nearly four hundred persons present. State Master Robie delivered an address in the afternoon, which was listened to with marked attention. All present partook of a bountiful feast in the dining room of the hall. The new building is a very fine and convenient one. The Grange is very prosperous, having nearly one hundred members, and they initiated twenty at their last meeting. The meeting was very interesting and enthusiastic, and the presence and welcome of the State Master must have been very pleasant to him.

Killed by Tobacco.

[New York Weekly Tribune.]

Mr. T. B. Terry, who writes so helpfully of many topics relating to the farm, will be endeared still more to many Tribune readers when they learn that he is outspoken against what he characterizes as "the filthy and disgusting as well as expensive tobacco habit." In a letter to "Gleanings" our Ohio friend and valued contributor relates some facts which should cause devotees of the weed—producers and consumers alike—to count the fatal cost of their indulgence, not only as it relates to worldly welfare but to life itself. First take this apt illustration of a condition lamentably common:

"I called on a family not long since who are said to be very much in need of help. They had not any oil to burn, but the man kept up his steady, spit, spit, spit as long as I stayed. It was, perhaps, the poorest home I was ever in, but not so poor but there is money for tobacco. I know another poor man about sixty years old. He has always been a faithful, hard-working man; but from boyhood he has drank and used tobacco steadily. He is not a drunkard, but a steady drinker. He has quite a family; a nice wife; but the house or shelter they have lived in for twenty years is but little better than outdoors. He told me himself that in very cold nights one of them had to sit up and keep putting in wood while the others slept, and that with their beds up close to the fire. I think they usually get enough to eat, but that is all. The rest goes to the saloon. I carefully figured up the other day from statements made by the man himself, and found that the money he had paid for tobacco and liquor, saved and kept at interest, would to-day buy him my farm and home. Now, it's a question how much charity we owe such men. I saved my money and bought a home; they squandered theirs and have nothing."

Reference is made to the doubly injurious effect of the "vile stuff" upon children, many of whom, especially in towns, begin the habit when hardly beyond the spanking age. Mr. Terry urges passage of a United States law forbidding tobacco to all minors, and declares that the men who chew or smoke should not marry—for a sufficient reason which the appended statement should duly impress:

"Not long since I was walking in the city with a celebrated physician. As we passed a house, surrounded with every evidence of wealth and refinement, he spoke: 'I have a patient in there, an idolized wife, who is dying, and beyond all help, and none of them know what is the matter with her, and still her husband has killed her.' 'Why doctor,' says I, 'what do you mean?' 'I mean just this,' he says; 'her husband is just literally steeped in tobacco until the insensible perspiration from his body has become a deadly poison, and his wife has absorbed enough of this, and had before I was called in, so that she will die.' 'Have you told them?' 'No; what good? It would only add to their misery now.' 'But, doctor, are you sure?' 'Yes; I have seen such things before. Some constitutions can bear the poison and some cannot. Why, just to give you an idea, I saw this experiment tried, among others, at an establishment where they treat patients for the cure of the tobacco habit. A man just brought in was washed as clean as soap and water could make him, and then some flies were allowed to alight on him. In five minutes by the watch they were dead. There was poison enough in the perspiration that came out of a man washed as clean as possible to kill them. You can imagine what it would be when he wasn't washed, perhaps, to spend hours each day in a bed with him.' This was all new to me and I was completely dumfounded. I don't use tobacco, thank God, and never did; but if I had, that physician's statement would have stopped me as surely and quickly as a bullet would. Run any risk of killing my dear wife by my filthy habit? Not much! I would have slept in the stable; no, in the pigpen; no, outdoors under a tree, far from every live animal, until the poison was all out of my system."

Mr. A. I. Root, in comment upon the foregoing, remarks that the facts explain his own inability to endure the atmosphere of a car or room filled with tobacco smoke—"it sickens and crazes me," he says, and sometimes the effect of the poison endures for days. As to use of the "vile narcotic" by children he cites a recent experience at a restaurant in Ann Arbor, Mich.:

"While paying our bills a troop of juveniles entered. Every one had a cigarette in his mouth, even away down to the small boy with short trousers; and the sight of this boy inhaling the fumes of tobacco, the blood in his youthful veins being stimulated by the vile narcotic, almost made me shudder. Dr. Mason suggested to the proprietor that boys ought not to be allowed to smoke in such a place. 'Why,' replied one of the small ones, 'he sells us the cigarettes hisself.' That was a clincher. So long as the proprietor sold cigarettes the boys had a right to smoke them on his premises. It is positively appalling to see these little ones rivet the chains of a vile habit while they are too young to discriminate. I wish I could see these boys' mothers."

The Trotting Queen.

MAUD S. IS STILL ABLE TO BEAT ANY HORSE IN THE WORLD.

"There was no time last summer when Maud S. could not have beaten her record, if given a week or so of sharp training," said Robert Bonner, the owner of the fast mare, to a reporter of the New York Commercial. The mare's present condition is excellent. She is in perfect health, and takes a walk with Murphy every day. We have not trotted her any this winter. You see, she is too valuable a horse to run the risk of injuring her on the rough and slippery roads of winter. A horse can't be driven in rough weather without corks on his shoes. These elevate the feet so that in uneven places the ankle is liable to turn and be sprained. So that the only exercise Maud S. has had during the cold weather is a daily walk. As we did last year, we will begin jogging her on Feb. 22. About that time the frost is sufficiently out of the ground to permit a horse to be driven without corks."

"Will you make her try to beat her record during the coming season?"

"Not unless her record is approached by some other horse. There is no use in making a horse tear itself to pieces. Her record is 2.08¾. During the last two seasons there was an unusually large number of promising young horses brought to the front. We have raised so many trotting horses of late years, that some good records are likely to be made. For that reason I have kept Maud S. in condition, so that, if her record was approached by any other horse, we could, with a little training, send her beyond it. Yet there hasn't been a horse in 1885 or 1886, which has beaten the record made by Rarus, 10 years ago—2.13¼. In all that time, Rarus has been beaten by only two horses, St. Julien and Jay-Eye-See. Otherwise, the nearest approach to Rarus' record, in the last two years, was made last summer by Harry Wilkes, when he trotted in 2.14¾. It's enough satisfaction for the present, to know that Maud S. can beat any horse in the world. I have driven her myself to a road wagon, in 2.14½, the fastest time ever made with a wagon. Mr. Vanderbilt drove her and Aldine in 2.15½. That was the fastest time ever made by a double team."

"What were your sensations when you drove her 2.14½?"

"They were altogether pleasant. I don't think there is any more danger in riding fast than in riding slow. If any accident happens in either case, the chances of escape are very slim. Years ago there were four of us publishers who were fond of horses. Col. John Harper and I drove fast ones, and James Harper and Mr. Tousey drove slow ones. James Harper was thrown out on Fifth avenue, carried to St. Luke's hospital, and in a few days died. Tousey was thrown out in Central Park and was badly broken up, but he recovered. John Harper and I never had any accidents.

"Do you think any horse will ever beat your mare?"

"Some people say her record will never be beaten. I don't agree with them. In the first place, she can beat it herself. Then I believe the record will, after awhile, be cut down to 2.06, or near that. I think it will never get down to two minutes. Horses are flesh and blood, and the severe training necessary to make fast trotters injures too many of them before very low figures are reached. It is the high speed that kills. A horse must trot thousands of miles in about 2.14 before it can trot one in 2.10. This pace is liable to injure them in so many different ways that few escape the severe training unhurt. Yet the trotting average gets better all the time. When it becomes necessary to reduce Maud S.'s record you may be sure it will be done."

Horses in Japan.

THE LARGEST BREEDING FARM IN THE WORLD.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

Japan with nearly 40,000,000 people, has only 875,000 head of cattle and 1,200,000 horses, and is without mules, swine or sheep. We have two head of horned cattle to every three persons. The Japanese have 500 persons to each head of bovine stock. We have one horse or mule to every four persons; they have only one horse to every thirty-three persons. Of sheep they have no knowledge, as they wear no woolen clothes and eat no mutton. Swine meat is as much an abomination to them as it is to the Brahmins. The Emperor rode on a wheeled carriage and that mode of conveyance was made sacred to his use, while other people must ride in other fashion or walk. The nobility monopolizes sedan chairs and horseback riding, and to the common people was left the privilege of walking. The farmers and packers on their return from markets would, however, mount their horses, but upon the appearance of one of the men-at-arms they would tumble off in all possible haste, so as to meet their superiors in their proper places; that is, on foot. Horses thus became aristocratic animals and were held in high esteem.

There are large breeding establishments in many parts of the world, but it is doubtful if there is now, or ever was, a breeding establishment in any other country that could equal the great horse pasture of Simosa, in Japan. Nearly a thousand years ago the main island of the Japanese Empire was about equally divided between the conquering race and the aborigines. The conquerors held the southern half and the aborigines the northern half. One of the reigning Tycoons determined upon the conquest of the aborigines, and he sent a large and well equipped army across the Hakoni range into the aboriginal territory. After a long war, in which there were many bloody battles, the aborigines were driven north. The territory conquered comprises all the country around Tokio, the capital, and several provinces still north of that, within the boundaries of this conquest, were what are now called the "Plains of Shimosa." These plains were found to be admirably adapted to grazing.

They are about forty miles east of Tokio, between the head of the bay of Yeddo and the ocean, and are three hundred or four hundred feet above the sea level. They are in fact peninsular table lands. From these plains a considerable number of small streams have their sources. The larger part of this surface is covered with grasses, indigenous to that country, among which are several kinds of clovers, bunch grasses and a fescue grass. At intervals there are groves of pines, oaks, beech and maple trees.

It was determined to establish there a pasture, where the best cavalry horses could be bred and in such numbers that their whole cavalry could be supplied with fresh mounts at any time. Ordinary inclosures, and even subdivision fences, could have been built with little labor and cost, but ordinary fences would not have met the requirements.

The Japanese population was then three hundred or four hundred miles south of that point. Two hundred miles north were the defeated but still unconquered aborigines, ready to pounce down upon the invaders whenever a favorable opportunity presented.

Under these circumstances a fortified fence was demanded. To thus inclose a peninsula fifty miles by seventy miles was a gigantic work, but when an absolute authority, with millions of submissive people ready to obey that authority, determined to do a work the amount of labor involved does not stand in the way of its accomplishment. An imperial decree was issued, ordering each feudal Prince in the Empire to send a certain number of laborers to build the inclosure and to make permanent settlements there. All the lands bordering the streams, susceptible of irrigation, were allotted to the laborers for homes. From every province laborers, with their families, poured in, and in a short time two hundred and fifty villages were built along the line of the proposed inclosure. Crops for the food of these workers were planted, and the work on the fortified fences began with impressive ceremonies, befitting the importance of this project.

The outer enclosure was a solid earth embankment, sixteen feet high. It was built to conform to the borders of the table land, which on the bay and ocean sides were very irregular. These irregularities increased the length of the embankment, and, as the land along the stream, allotted to the settlers, could not be included in the pasture, this great embankment had to be run up one side of the stream nearly to its source and then back again down the other side. As there were many of these streams the amount of embankment was enormously increased.

In a book published by the Government many years ago, the length of this outer fortified fence or embankment is stated to be five hundred miles. From two years residence on this table land, riding every day, through various portions of this old horse pasture, I believe this statement is within the bounds of truth. After this outer embankment was finished it was sown with a grass called "Hea," which becomes more deeply rooted in the soil than any other known grass.

In that case the roots ran through the whole of the masses of earth, and have thus held them together so firmly that the embankments have not perceptibly washed or weathered through all the centuries which have intervened since their construction.

On the top of this embankment, a row of trees was planted. This enclosure formed a very strong defence, and even if an enemy had stormed and taken it, it would have been impossible to get the horses out, except at the gates which were still more strongly fortified, and a detachment of mounted troops was stationed at each one. At convenient points, corrals were built, and these were made double strong. They were made by throwing up embankments twenty-five and even thirty feet high.

In case the aborigines had succeeded in getting inside the outer embankment, the horses were to have been run into these immense corrals and defended there. The aborigines never succeeded in getting into the pasture, and if they had the corrals would not have been needed, for in a few years these horses became so wild that the whole Sioux tribe of Indians could not have caught them. The work of building the outer embankment occupied many years, and the construction of the corrals many more. Then all this great plain or tableland was sub-divided into smaller pastures containing from eight hundred to two thousand acres each. The subdivision embankments were made twelve feet high, and the authority above quoted places the total length of these at two thousand five hundred miles. This work was all done by manual labor the earth being dug up by mattocks, put in rope sacks and then carried to the embankment on the backs of men. The best equine stock of the Empire was bought and brought to these pastures. Embassadors were sent to Corea, Manchuria and China, and the blooded stallions were bought for the improvement of the native blood. By the natural increase in a century or two there was an immense number of horses in this imperial pasture. The authority already quoted puts this number at more than one hundred thousand. The laborers used in the construction of the embankment settled permanently on the lands that were excluded from the enclosure, and the villages founded by them are still there. By these means the rulers not only had a thoroughly fortified pasture, but they occupied, settled and developed the country conquered from the enemy.

Secretary Manning has formally tendered his resignation to the President The chances are that no immediate appointment will be made

The Democrats of Portland have nominated Mr Charles McCarthy as their candidate for Mayor When a boy Mr McCarthy resided in this city and moved to Portland in 1855 He is a prosperous business man with a good record, but unfortunately belongs to the wrong party Mayor Chapman, the present Republican incumbent, will doubtless be his own successor

It now looks as though Mr Dunn's free ship bill was dead so far as the Congress is concerned The action of the Senate in refusing to attach Mr Morgan's free ship amendment to Mr Frye s subsidy clause shows that the Dunn bill would stand a slim chance in that body even if it passed the House which is not altogether certain It is a most pernicious measure and illustrates the danger of placing such a man as Mr Dunn at the head of the Committee on Shipping, a subject with which he is entirely unfamiliar

In consequence of recent calamities due to stoves in cars, the officials of the Northern Pacific have decided to experiment with an iron car from which the cars of the train will be supplied not only with heat but with light and water It is proposed to have the car next to the engine so that connection when the engine is cut off may not be broken with the rest of the train Whether electricity or gas for lighting the train will be used it is not yet determined upon

The New York World declares that few people understand the fishery question and then proceeds to demonstrate its claim to a position in the ranks of that class by remarking that the duty on fish has increased the price of an important article of food mainly to poor people, all over the country " This is not only a misstatement but it has been refuted by even so good a Democrat as Col French who ran for Congress on the Democratic ticket in Massachusetts last fall He was interviewed on this very point and thoroughly exploded the World's charge

Yesterday was a red letter day for the ex Mayors, Mr Walker having been appointed Postmaster at Lewiston and ex Mayor Cummings Postmaster at Bangor The latter appointment seems to have been a victory for the old timers who have rallied to his support ever since the election of President Cleveland The selection of Mr Cummings will be a bitter dose for Mr Bass The other candidates were Messrs Bliss and Owen whose friends will naturally feel disappointed at this appointment The office is one of much importance and time alone will tell with what degree of efficiency it will be administered under Mr Cumming's direction

The New York Tribune Almanac for 1887 is now out It is one of the most complete political text books of the United States, and partaking as it does of the active and authoritative character of all work done by the Tribune, it is valuable All the figures are official The electoral vote of each State, a resume of the newest laws of Congress and the party platforms, and full information about elections, imports and exports gold and silver, etc are contained in this work The law of Presidential succession is given here, the one on alcoholic drinks and in fact all of consequence of Congressional enactment in 1886 A full list of President Cleveland's officials at Washington, and the new representatives abroad, also all the Governors of States, and a great variety of similar political data are given Price 30 cent a copy

Postmaster Farnham.

The term of office of Col A B Farnham as Postmaster of Bangor expires next Saturday and as is noted elsewhere the President has appointed ex Mayor Cummings as his successor Col Farnham was appointed to his present position in 1871, during President Grant s first term, and has been reappointed from time to time by succeeding administrations, holding the office continuously for sixteen years In that time he has made a record of which he may well feel proud The business of the office has increased wonderfully since he was first appointed, but the Colonel has always kept well abreast of the times and the efficiency of the Bangor office has never been questioned either at Washington or by the public It falls to the lot of but few men to go out of a public office after so many years of constant service holding the confidence, respect and high esteem of his fellow citizens of all political parties in so marked a degree as does Col Farnham One of nature s noblemen a gentleman of unquestioned integrity, as courteous and straightforward in all his official life as he was brave on the field of battle in those dark hours of rebellion Col Farnham will always carry with him in whatever business he may engage, after his successor qualifies the best wishes of a host of friends for a prosperous and happy future

MATTERS OF INTEREST BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE.—A PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENT

[Special Correspondence of Whig and Courier]

AUGUSTA, Feb 15.

This is the seventh week of the Legislature and ranks as one of the most important of the entire session. The largest number of visitors since the first week is here, the discussion of the labor question drawing no small number. At this time it is found on examination that nearly all the important matters before the Legislature remain undecided and must be disposed of shortly. From this time forth a large amount of debate may be looked for and the forensic ability of the legislators will be displayed at its best advantage Committee hearings remain unabated.

TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION.

It would seem as though the temperance people who advocate more law would be given about what they ask for by this Legislature if the committee's action is to be followed. The committee will quite surely favor in their report imprisonment for the first offence against the liquor law. Mr. Griffin, of Kansas, in his lecture at the Congregational church Monday evening, said that two years ago a law was passed making the penalty for the first offence $100 fine and 30 days imprisonment in his State. The result had been that a large number of rumsellers had been driven from the liquor traffic. The committee will probably recommend that the paying of a United States special tax be made prima facie evidence of guilt. The older law will be changed by removing the five gallon provision and placing the beverage in the same category with other intoxicating drinks The making of the State Liquor Agent a salaried official is one of the recommendations.

THE DEATH PENALTY

I find that the capital punishment question is to be a momentous one. Three strong men in the House favor a repeal of the present law and a sharp contest may be looked for. The hearing is assigned for February 24 in Representatives' Hall, when eminent gentlemen will express their views Speaking of capital punishment reminds me of the proposed plan to take the life of criminals by injecting morphine. Monday evening Dr Gerrish, of Portland, who is a member of the State Board of Health, came before the Committee on Legal Affairs and advocated the new method, speaking half an hour Hanging he regarded as a relic of barbarism Frequently the victim died a lingering and horrible death by strangulation, while the public mind was excited and the moral effect on the community was very injurious To be executed by morphine injection was a comparatively easy death and the public disturbance could be obviated in a large measure

THE CATTLE DISEASE.

Tuberculosis continues to hold a prominent position of attention at the State House and it is much talked of and commented upon, especially since Mr Heath s remarks relative to Mr Gilbert, in the Senate The joint special committee appointed to investigate consists of Senators Allen of Knox and Rich of Waldo, with Representatives Walton of Skowhegan, Libby of Burnham, and Adams of Litchfield, who are instructed to investigate the cause or causes of the late outbreak of disease among the cattle at the State College farm, the loss of other cattle at said farm prior to that time, the disposal of the cattle therefrom, and the doings and correspondence of the commissioners on contagious diseases among cattle in relation to the same The committee meets next Thursday when the whole matter will be ventilated and all parties given an opportunity to be heard

AN IMPORTANT INVESTIGATION

Mr Noble of Lewiston has presented and the House adopted the following order

"Ordered that a joint special committee of five on the part of the House and such as the Senate may join be directed to enquire into the expediency of repealing the charters of the Maine branch of the Druidic University and the Maine Eclectic Medical College and to have power to send for persons and papers, compel the attendance of witnesses and employ a stenographer "

JURISDICTION OF THE COURT

Mr Fogg has introduced a bill to more clearly define the equity jurisdiction of the Supreme Judicial Court

The Supreme Judicial Court shall have jurisdiction in equity to reach and apply in payment of a debt any property, right title, or interest, real or personal, of a debtor, liable to be attached, or taken on execution in a suit at law against him and fraudulently conveyed by him with intent to defeat, delay or defraud his creditors, or purchased or directly or indirectly paid for by him, the record or other title to which is retained in the vendor, or is conveyed to a third person with intent to defeat, delay, or defraud the creditors of the debtors

A PLEASANT SOCIAL EVENT

One of the pleasantest parties of the season was that tendered at the Augusta House on Monday evening, St Valentine's night, by Mrs G P Wescott, of Portland Mrs Wm Engel, of Bangor, and Mrs A L Lumbert, of Houlton There were nearly one hundred guests Drive whist was the principal recreation of the evening and the prizes were very handsome A beautiful hand painted fan was the first prize with carved ivory sticks for the lady, and for the gentleman a hand painted umbrella stand For the booby prizes there was a pretty little basket filled with chocolates for the lady and a gilded shoe tree with blue ribbon on which was inscribed ' Last, but not least, ' for the gentleman A beautiful embroidered blotter and a painted ash receiver were the consolation prizes Choice refreshments were served and there was dancing up to a late hour, Pullen s Orchestra furnishing the music. There were many elegant costumes worn Mrs Wescott received in one of Worth's gowns of black silk jetted, with diamond ornaments Mrs Engel wore a light blue satin with draperies of chantilly lace and diamonds The material of Mrs Lumbert s costume was white wool with lace draperies and lace sleeves

STATE COLLEGE RESOLVE

The resolve appropriating $39,000 for the State College, $25,000 of which is for a new building for the accommodation of a department of agriculture and natural history came up in the Senate to-day and was discussed at considerable length It was favored by Senators Heath, Libby, Russell, Flint and Lord The latter, of Bangor, spoke briefly but earnestly in favor of supporting the college The State was under obligation to maintain it not only by reason of the appropriation received from the general Government, but because it is doing an excellent work and is a great boon for our young men who desire an advanced education The faculty is an unusually able one and the college is constantly broadening its scope and increasing the value of its work Senators Lumbert, Goodnow and Gushee opposed the measure. The resolve was tabled

RAILROAD MATTERS.

The hearing on the Monson Railroad occurs to morrow and that of the Megantic the day following Many Bangor gentlemen are here to-day and the Representatives of the city are preparing to maintain their rights in both cases.

The Democrats object to an Inquiry.

[Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal]

WASHINGTON, Feb 14 The Democrats in the House to-day by a party vote, with the exception of Lawler, Wise and Norwood, refused to pass a resolution of inquiry introduced by Mr Boutelle of Maine, and left the people to understand that the Secretary of the Navy is engaged in acts as to which it is not desirable that the country should be informed, or for which there is no legal authority. The resolution was aimed at the order which has recently been issued, which applies especially to the Boston Navy Yard, but which also has reference to other yards, and to the general policy which the department has adopted of transferring bureaus, and, as it is maintained by experts in the case of the Boston yard, of destroying a large amount of property without law, reason or good sense.

The resolution introduced by Mr. Boutelle some days ago called upon the Secretary of the Navy to furnish the House with the information as to the law under which he is acting in dismantling the Boston yard and in transferring the plants of the different yards from one to the other at great expense in accordance with the new plan of the Secretary, for which it may be difficult for him to find any authority in the Revised Statutes. The Committee on Naval Affairs, after keeping the resolution until the last day allowed by the rules, decided this morning to report it favorably, with an amendment which also called for the number of persons employed in the different navy yards and the time when they were employed. This was the unanimous report of the committee

The resolution was reported by Wise, of Virginia but hardly had it been presented when Mr Randall rushed to the front, cracked the party whip, and moved that the resolution be tabled, and it was tabled by a strict party vote with the three exceptions named. The conclusion which the people may draw from the manner in which this wholesome inquiry was smothered is either that Mr. Randall does not care to have the public know the number of men that were employed at the League Island Navy Yard just before the Congressional election, or because he does not think it good policy for the Democratic party to permit the public to know upon how slender a foundation the Secretary of the Navy is assuming to have authority to revolutionize the navy yard system The Democratic leaders have refused to permit a very natural and reasonable inquiry to be made

Commissioners [illegible]

[illegible]

BY TELEGRAPH.

MAINE NEWS

FROM THE STATE CAPITOL.

Doings of the Legislature.

AUGUSTA, Feb. 15. In the House an investigation was begun into the charges made against the "Maine Eclectic College" and "Druidic University" of Lewiston. Messrs Noble, Wakefield, Pattangall, Lufkin and Corson were appointed committee of Investigation. The debate on the Looney ten hour bill shows that it has the support of the Republican members except the Knights of Labor who would substitute the Heath bill. Messrs. Looney, [illegible] and Condon are for the Looney bill and Scott, Carrigan and Rand are for the Heath bill. Many amendments were presented but none were accepted. Adjourned to 4.30 P. M.

On the reassembling of the House the Looney ten hour bill was again taken up and discussed but no action was reached.

In the Senate there was a continuation of the attack on the State College. Senators [illegible], Heath, Russell, Lord, [illegible] and Libbey joined in the exciting debate. The appropriation of $30,000 was sustained.

Reception by Governor Bodwell.

Governor Bodwell and staff will give a reception to the citizens of the State at the State House on Tuesday, February 22, Washington's Birthday, from 11 A. M. to 1 P. M. A general invitation is extended.

FROM PORTLAND.

A Farmers' Institute.

PORTLAND, Feb. 15. A Farmers' Institute, under the direction of the Board of Agriculture, closed to-night. There was a good attendance of farmers from all over the State. There were addresses by R. W. Murch, of Hampden, E. Cushman, of [illegible] Mass., and W. D. Philbrook, of [illegible].

THE QUESTION SETTLED.

Ex-Mayor Cummings Nominated for Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. The President sent to the Senate to-day the nomination of Frederick A. Cummings as Postmaster at Bangor and Charles Walker as Postmaster at Lewiston.

PENSIONS GRANTED.

Additional to Residents of Maine.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. Pensions have been granted to residents of Maine as follows: George F. Crockett, (original) [illegible], Joseph A. Nolen, (original) [illegible], Samuel J. Stevens, (increase) [illegible], William W. Lorden (increase) [illegible], [illegible], (increase) Togus; Henry B. Neal, (original) Waite; [illegible] P. Webb, (increase) Caribou; [illegible] Cook, (restoration and increase) [illegible], Alfred P. Shule, (restoration and increase) Bradford; James H. Syphers [illegible].

FROM WASHINGTON.

News About the Capital.

The Fishery Retaliatory Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. The Fishery [illegible] bills were again discussed to-day by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. No conclusion was reached but [illegible] that a vote on the pending [illegible] will be taken to-morrow.

Secretary Manning's Successor.

The President will appoint a successor to Secretary Manning before the adjournment of Congress but the appointment will not take effect before April 1st.

Coming Bond Calls.

It is expected that a call for $10,000,000 of [illegible] bonds will be issued next week [illegible] the entire 3 per cent. loan, of which there is now about $10,000,000, outstanding will be entirely extinguished.

DETROIT, Feb. 15. While Edward Holmes's three little children were playing in his furniture store this afternoon, they upset a stove and exploded a can of benzine. The children, Eliza, Henry, and Eddie, five, three and two years old respectively, were fatally and their father seriously injured.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Horse Railroad Troubles.

BOSTON, Feb. 15. President Richards of the Metropolitan Street Railroad has at the request of the striking Cambridge [illegible] prepared a schedule, showing the differences between the latter company and its men and has presented it to the Cambridge directors. Mr Richards states that no compromise had been effected as yet, but he is of the opinion that a satisfactory agreement will be reached in a short time. The cars have been running on the Cambridge and South Boston roads, to-day, without interference.

CONNECTICUT.

Two Little Boys Drowned.

NEW LONDON, Feb. 15. Yesterday afternoon Walter Spencer, six years old, and Leonard Leper, seven years old, were drowned in the river while paddling on the ice.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Sweeping Republican Victory in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15. Returns from fourteen of the thirty-one wards in the city, give Fitler, Republican for Mayor, a majority of 12,293, and Clay, Republican, for Receiver of Taxes, 7,578. A careful estimate at midnight places Fitler's majority at 25,000 and Clay's at 8,000 to 10,000. Warwick, Republican, for City Solicitor, is running ahead of the ticket and will probably have between 30,000 and 35,000 majority. Owing to the extensive scratching the returns are coming in slowly.

FORTY-NINTH CONGRESS—Second Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. Mr. Jones of Nevada, from the Committee on Finance, reported back the House amendments to the trade dollar bill, with the recommendation that they be concurred in. The amendments were non-concurred in and a Conference Committee appointed.

Mr. Mitchell, of Oregon, offered a preamble and resolution reciting the provisions of the Thurman, funding bill, to the effect that if either of the Pacific Railroad Companies fails for six months to perform its requirements, such failure shall operate as a forfeiture, and directing the Attorney General to advise the Senate whether the Union or Central Pacific Companies has, for a period of six months or longer, failed to perform its duty under that law, and if so, whether any proceedings have been instituted by the Attorney General for the purpose of judicially enforcing the forfeitures of all the rights, privileges, grants and franchises referred to; referred to the Judiciary Committee.

On motion of Mr. Call the bill to increase the naval establishment was taken up.

Mr. Hale offered an amendment that if the speed of any of the vessels shall exceed twenty knots an hour the contractor shall receive $50,000 for every additional quarter of a knot and if it shall be less than twenty knots an hour there shall be deducted from the contractor $50,000 for every quarter knot below twenty knots.

A long debate without action ensued, after which, the unfinished business, the Eads Tehuantepec bill, was presented by the presiding officer and taken up for consideration.

Mr. Cullom gave notice that he would move to take up the Naval bill to-morrow.

Mr. Blair gave notice that to-morrow he would ask the Senate to consider the resolution in honor of his late colleague Senator Pike.

The Senate at 5.50 adjourned.

House.

After disposal of the business on the Speaker's table Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, called up the resolution discharging the Committee of the Whole from further consideration of the Senate bill granting a pension to Mary S. Logan and making that bill a special order for to-day. Against this resolution the point of order was pending, that it did not permit the privileged questions and was not entitled to immediate consideration. After a short discussion Mr. Dingley thought that in order to secure the orderly conduct of the members of the House the Speaker must hold that the proposition making a special order was not a change of rules but was a suspension of rules, requiring a two-thirds vote.

The Speaker then rendered his decision sustaining the point of order, stating that the resolution would practically change the rule and precedent if considered as proposed and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, submitted the Conference report on the anti-Mormon bill and it was ordered printed and laid over till Thursday.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill. Without completing the consideration of the bill the Committee rose and the House at 5.05, adjourned.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The State Temperance Union.

CONCORD, Feb. 15. The Executive Committee of the New Hampshire State Temperance Union met to-day. Rev. C. E. Harrington, of Keene, and Rev. J. W. Adams, of Exeter, were appointed delegates to the meeting of the New England Temperance Union to be held at Boston next Tuesday. It was voted to have the annual meeting for State organizations at Tilton, next June.

ILLINOIS.

Switchmen Mad because not Paid.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15. The switchmen on the Wabash Railroad were not paid to-day, the regular pay-day, and threatened to strike to-morrow if the money is not forthcoming. The discharge of employes and rumored reductions have made the men discontented.

WHAT IS SAFE TO EAT?

Poisoned by Eating Brown Bread.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 15. Shortly after noon, yesterday, all the persons who had eaten dinner at Mrs. Childs' boarding house, on Maple street, Holyoke, were taken violently ill with symptoms of arsenical poison. Among the parties were John P. Cushing, principal of the High School, Dr. Humeston, Dr. C. R. Gardner and several other well known gentlemen and ladies of Holyoke. Prompt medical assistance was rendered the sufferers and at present all are doing well. It is supposed that brown bread which was heartily eaten by all, was the cause of the illness, presumably from the poor quality of rye flour with which it was made, being chemically acted upon by the heat in baking.

Corned Beef and Cabbage Equally Dangerous.

HARTFORD, Ct., Feb. 15. The family of F. A. Amidon were taken violently ill at 4 A. M., to-day, with symptoms of poisoning. Antidotes were promptly administered and all are believed to be out of danger. For supper, last night all except the baby, ate corned beef and cabbage, which will be analysed.

THE VERMONT DISASTER.

Two More Bodies Recognized—The Total Killed Thirty-four.

HARTFORD, Vt., Feb. 15. Two more bodies were fully identified up to noon today, those of Mrs. Wm. Denens, Jr., of Winooski, Vt., and Miss Arnusie Guirod, of Upton, P. Q. This leaves but three unidentified dead. The total number of 92 persons on the train are now all accounted for on the basis of 34 total deaths as before given, but the morgue records fall short three from this number.

Another Body Identified.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Feb. 15. The body of Agnes Rogers was identified by friends this evening. Two bodies remain in the morgue and it is probable that they are those of Peter McLane, of Acton, P. Q., and Di Maigret. Miss E. M. Nutting, of Madison Bridge, Me., is at Hartford, looking for her brother who was probably on the wrecked train. H. G. Wilcox had a relapse to-day. The commissioners began reviewing the evidence to-night, but no estimate can be made as to when the reports will be completed, but they intend that it shall be finished within a day or two.

NEW YORK.

Butler's $100,000 Case on Trial.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15. The case of J. H. Lester against Gen. B. F. Butler was continued to-day in the United States Circuit Court. Lester's cross examination by Gen. Butler proceeded. A letter from Lester to his wife, on military matters, was placed on evidence. It was dated April 15, 1861. Another letter was produced which was taken from his wife's trunk. In it the writer asked for circulars and advised him to go in hot for secession. A circular from the Union Manufacturing Co., with which Lester was connected, was read. In it was an advertisement for machinery to be used in making arms. It solicited orders from southern troops and said the company was ready to supply any number of arms. After Butler had read the circular Lester asked to make a statement. He said that he was Superintendent of the Union Manufacturing Co. and that he never was foreman in Colt's Armory but that the foreman referred to was A. MacVest.

The Army of the Potomac.

At the next annual re-union of the Army of the Potomac, at Saratoga Springs, in June, Chauncey M. Depew will be orator and Wallace Bruce poet.

The Daughter of Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage Married.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 15. Miss Edith E. Talmage, daughter of Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, was married to Allen E. Donnan of Richmond, Va., in the Tabernacle this evening. Over 5,000 guests were present.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The river at Sterling, Ills., is higher than it has been known to be before for twenty years, and everything is at a standstill, the mills and factories all being closed. The ice has gorged for miles and grave fears are entertained. At least 20 families have been driven from their houses. The water came with such a rush that not one of them was able to move any of their household goods and [illegible] from present appearances the worst has not come. The [illegible] [illegible] is entirely submerged and [illegible].

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

What British Minister West Says.

He Anticipates a Speedy Settlement without any Trouble.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15. Sir Lionel West, British Minister at Washington, who is now in this city, being asked to-day if he thought Great Britain and the United States would have war, or cease to have intercourse in a friendly way, said: No, I don't anticipate any trouble whatever about the fishery question. Negotiations are now going forward in London between Minister Phelps and the British government and I think the question will be finally settled before Congress adjourns. I am in no way alarmed over the outlook. These negotiations will be of a character to insure reciprocal relations between Canada and the United States and stop all action in the way of retaliatory measures that Congress may pass.

Expects an Arrangement by the Fourth of March.

I am not afraid to predict that by the fourth of March a satisfactory basis or plan of treaty will be agreed upon by the two countries and the whole question settled. At no time have I been afraid of open rupture, notwithstanding the speeches of Ingalls, Edmunds and others. Even if the retaliatory and non intercourse bill goes through and becomes a law I do not think the relations between this country and Canada will be strained. The President will have the power to put a law in force or not, as he sees proper, and that is a provision that will prevent any rash or harsh measures from being taken until all other pacific remedies are exhausted. Suppose the non-intercourse bill passes Congress and becomes law within a few days, that as many might imagine, because the President's right to enforce and not enforce it would either make it a source of annoyance or not, but if the President enforced the non-intercourse bill that would not be a casus belli. The two countries have a right not to have anything to do with each other, just the same as individuals, without fighting. Of course to stop all traffic between Canada and this country would be an annoyance to both countries and a great inconvenience, but this is mere speculation, because I expect all this fishery question to be definitely settled by negotiations now pending in London. Those who expect hostilities or any very unpleasant relations between the United States and Great Britain will be disappointed.

Would in No Wise be a Casus Belli,

THE FLAG HAULED DOWN.

The Longshoremen give up the Struggle.

Matters Getting Settled and Many Men Getting Left.

The Morgan Line Negotiating With its Old Men.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15. Italians who took the places of the strikers on the Morgan Line, at Pier 36, North River, were all discharged to-day, and colored help was put in their places. The Company are negotiating with the old hands to come back and in the mean time the freight jam is as bad as during the first days of the strike.

The Police Still on Duty.

The police are still kept on extra duty yet at nearly all the wharves. The companies refuse to discharge non-union men. Two or three hundred strikers have been put to work at Martin's and Pierrepont's stores, but are not recognized as union men. Three or four hundred of the United States Weighers' laborers are still out. When they returned to work Monday it was found that only two men were allowed to each scale, thus cutting down the force. The consequence was another strike.

Condition of the Coal Managers.

The coal managers report great delay in loading boats and say the situation has not improved for them since the strike alongshore was declared off. There is no movement to restrict the allotment for March and although the time for agreeing upon the amount occurs on the 20 inst. no meeting has been called to consider it.

Non-Union Men Working at Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 15. The situation of the strike along the Jersey shore is unchanged. The striking coal handlers and 'longshoremen held lengthy sessions this morning at their respective meeting places, but what they did is unknown. None of the strikers were taken back by the companies, who are working the usual compliment of non-union men.

Too Late—All Vacancies Filled.

The striking Erie freight handlers to-day sent a Committee to Superintendent Barrett to arbitrate the present differences. Superintendent Barrett informed the Committee that there were no vacancies.

Several encounters occurred in Hoboken this afternoon between non-union 'longshoremen and strikers. Since the strike has been declared off many of the idle men have been drinking hard and threatening to attack the non-union men. A mob at Wilson dock to-day, without provocation, assailed four of the new men with clubs. One of the men was cut under the eye. The police reserves were called out to prevent further encounters.

Old Hands Returned to Work.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Feb. 15. The old hands of the Philadelphia and Reading Company returned to work this afternoon on the docks at Elizabethport, under agreement with Austin Corbin to work for 21½ cents an hour.

The 'Longshoremen Haul Down their Flag.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15. The 'longshoremen hauled down their flag to-day. Their brief revolt against District Assembly, No. 49, was squelched by circumstances over which they had no control. Not only did they see non-union men stepping into their shoes, but a good many of their own brethren determined to go to work. All along the river front men were asking for employment, but not always successfully. In many cases these men were told that they had made their bed and must lie on it.

THE BURLINGTON ICE CARNIVAL.

The Second Day Opens Successfully.

BURLINGTON, Feb. 15. The second day of the carnival opened favorably this morning with a good attendance from the early trains. There was a slight snow storm in the early morning, but not enough to interfere with the sports and the forenoon has been a lively one. Main street coast has been thronged with travelers and the toboggan slides have been well patronized. The snow shoe races are set for to-morrow and the ice yacht races come off Wednesday or Thursday, according to condition of the ice.

An Entire Success.

The second day of the Winter's Carnival has been an entire success and the attendance has been very large. During the entire forenoon Main street coast was crowded with traversers and in the afternoon there was a grand sleighing party, the course being over the ice and to places of interest about the city. During the afternoon also the coasting was well patronized, but owing to a rise of water on the edge of the lake the opening of the Russian slides was postponed. The other two slides were thronged, however, and the visitors have enjoyed themselves immensely, most of them taking active part in the sports.

This evening the city presented a gay appearance. Public buildings and residences are generally illuminated and there was another elaborate pyrotechnic display on the Main street coast. To-morrow trotting and ice yacht races are announced to take place on Lake Champlain. The great event of the Carnival will be the parade with decorated and illuminated traversers to-morrow evening.

An Accident that Proved Fatal.

RUTLAND, Vt., Feb. 15. James O. Barrett, who was pierced by a board while tobogganing last night, died to-night, having been conscious most of the time. He was thirty-five years old and was considered the best lawyer of his age in Vermont.

Another Victim will Recover.

Mrs. Charles [illegible] Harris, who was [illegible] at the same time, is comfortable and no danger is apprehended.

N. F.'S CONDITION.

Newfound-land and People on the Verge of Starvation.

The Most Miserable of English Colonists.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15. A special from St. Johns, N. F., says: Many prominent business houses here are in financial difficulties and a commercial crisis seems inevitable. The news from the northern parts of the island represents things as in a deplorable condition. The government has already sent thousands of barrels of flour to keep the people from starving, but the supply is already inadequate. The most northerly parts are now frozen in and it is impossible to send supplies there in time to save the people.

It was a most pitiful sight to witness the scenes at many places at which the coasting steamer Curlew stopped on her last trip north. Scores of people who had had and very little of that, to subsist upon for months, dragged themselves across twenty to fifty miles on the barren rocks and wild wastes to where the steamer stopped. They came in hopes of getting supplies of flour, molasses and pork enough to keep body and soul together during the next three months, but the steamer had no supplies for them and discouraged they started to return to their miserable homes to suffer the pangs of hunger and exhaustion, added to the rigors of a Newfoundland winter.

Aid Furnished by the Government.

Meantime the government has spent such large sums in purchasing supplies and in constructing the Placentia Railway to furnish labor and so save the people of those districts from starvation, that the treasury is depleted. Added to this is the fact that Newfoundland fish is a glut in every market owing to inability to compete with that of their bounty fed French rivals.

It is truly said that the island presents to the world a most mournful spectacle and its people are the most miserable of all English colonists. Compared with them the people of Ireland are happy, contented and prosperous.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

West Virginia Still Holds Fire.

CHARLESTON W. Va., Feb. 15. Two ballots for United States Senator were taken to-day. One of the Camden caucus Democrats bolted in the last ballot and voted for Judge Johnson.

A Ballot in the New Jersey Senate.

TRENTON, Feb. 15. The Senate this afternoon took the first ballot for United States Senator with this result: William F. Sewell, 12; Leon Abbott, 6; ex-Gov. George C. Ludlow and Joseph D. Bedle one each. The Assembly did not vote as the Democrats kept away.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Mr. Chamberlain's Irish Scheme.

LONDON, Feb. 15. Mr. Chamberlain and Sir George O. Trevelyan resumed their conference on Irish affairs with Baron Herschell, Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt and Mr. Morley. Mr. Chamberlain presented the draft of a scheme for the government of Ireland, which is a modification of his former proposal for the establishment of Provincial Councils. He would now establish an Ulster Parliament and one at Dublin, both to be subordinate to the Imperial Parliament, the Irish bodies holding executive authorities within their own limits, the Crown retaining the appointment of judges, and the control of customs and excise matters.

The conference lasted several hours. Mr. Morley declared his emphatic opposition to Mr. Chamberlin's proposals. He said it would be impossible to obtain the assent of the Parnelites, or of the bulk of the Gladstonians to the scheme, which had already been rejected by Mr. Gladstone.

Arms Seized by Raiders.

DUBLIN, Feb. 15. Fifty men made a raid last evening upon houses in Ballyourney and Kilnachael, county Cork, and seized all the firearms they could find. They successfully evaded the police.

The Trial of Dillon and Others.

DUBLIN, Feb. 15. In the Common Court to-day Messrs. Dillon, Sheehy, Crilly and O'Brien pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of conspiracy to induce tenants to refuse paying rents. Much difficulty was experienced in selecting a jury, but finally one of a composite character was formed which, of itself, portends a disagreement.

German Comments on a French Newspaper.

BERLIN, Feb. 15. Commenting on a recent article in La France, asserting that France's disposition was pacific and the responsibility for war would rest with Germany, the North German Gazette says: It requires all the effrontery of revanche journalism to dish up perversions of this nature. Articles in the same paper on October 11th and Dec. 18th, announced that France was ready to fight, expressed a wish that the decisive moment would not be long delayed and proclaimed the firm intention of the French to retake Alsace-Lorraine, adding that war would be inevitable at the first opportunity.

Sentenced to Death for Murdering a Missionary.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 15. Advices from Tonga Islands say that six natives have been sentenced to death for assaulting missionary Baker, and the King has refused to grant a petition presented by the Wesleyan missionary on the islands asking that mercy be shown the condemned men.

THE WEATHER.

WAR DEP'T. OFFICE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER,
Washington, D. C., Feb. 16—(1 A. M.)

Indications:

For New England: Local rains; followed by fair weather; slightly cooler; variable winds, becoming southerly.

A Sharp Comparison.

Speaking of the President's veto General Grosvenor, of Ohio said: "The record of the XLIXth Congress, on the subject of pensions, will be an instructive one, if the vote on the Dependent Pension bill shall be sustained. The Mexican Pension bill has become a law with a provision that service in the Rebel army, or navy, shall not bar any claimant. I estimate that at least three-fourths of the beneficiaries will be persons who were actively disloyal during the war. No general bill to add to the list of Union pensions has become a law in this Congress, but a few hundred acts, each for the benefit of a single individual, have been spread on the statute books. In other words, the result of pension legislation thus far has been to grant pensions to about two persons who were disloyal where the name of one Union veteran has been added to the pension roll. The President's treatment of the Mexican and the Dependent Pension bills respectively, both of which were in his hands at the same time, reminds me of an incident in the early history of Ohio which explains why the veto power is not granted in the Constitution of that State. While Ohio was yet a Territory and Arthur St. Clair was its Governor, his salary which was a small one, was supplemented by a revenue derived from marriage licenses.

"The tax for that purpose was regarded as onerous and unjust by the people. When the Territorial Legislature assembled one year it was represented to Governor St. Clair there was considerable dissatisfaction among the people on account of the tax on marriage. He admitted the force of their representations, but said that the salary of his office was so meagre that he could hardly afford to lose his income from the licenses. The legislators replied that they would arrange the matter to his satisfaction. Two bills were introduced, passed and sent to the Governor for his approval at the same time. One of them increased the Governor's salary by a sum equal to the estimated yearly receipts from the tax on marriages, and the other repealed that tax. The frugal Governor promptly approved the bill to increase his salary, and vetoed the one which would deprive him of the fees for the issue of marriage licenses. Mr. Cleveland's scruples forbade him to approve the bill for the relief of Union veterans who are dependent on charity for support, but did not deter him from approving a measure which will benefit three men who were disloyal to one man who stood by the Union in its hour of peril."

Next week will be a busy one with Andrews' Orchestra as dates for playing have been fixed for nearly every night. They play at a ball in Ellsworth the 22nd, part of the Orchestra for the K. of P. assembly in this city the 23rd, at a ball in Dover the 24th, and at Waterville the 25th. This fine organization is appreciated by the people of this State as it deserves to be.

The friends of Mr. G. H. Reed, who graduated from the Seminary last June, will be pleased to hear that he has received and accepted a call to the Winslow Congregational Church of Taunton, Mass. The Winslow Church is one of the largest and wealthiest in Taunton, and the call was unsought by Mr. Reed and repeated several times before he accepted it.

THE SURVEYOR GENERALSHIP. The County Commissioners yesterday settled the matter of the Surveyor Generalship of lumber, by the appointment of Col. C. V. Crossman, who gave much satisfaction during the three years when he held the office before. Mr. Gardiner Brugdon, who held the position for the past term, has been an excellent official and given general satisfaction.

The third assembly in Andrews' course occurred last night and was greatly enjoyed by those in attendance. The floor director was Mr. E. M. Hersey, and Messrs. C. E. Hill and F. H. Strickland were aides. A fine order of thirteen dances was arranged. Messrs. Andrews, Hall, Cushing, Todd and Wasgatt furnished excellent music. Refreshments were served at intermission.

MATTAWAMKEAG NOTES. Our correspondent writes: A "box sociable" was held at the residence of J. H. Hamilton, on Saturday evening, for the benefit of the minister. It was well attended, about nine dollars being realized and a pleasant evening enjoyed.——The village rejoices in the return of Roscoe Varney, the village barber, after an absence of several weeks in Massachusetts.——Conductor F. W. Hammond and Engineer Charles Hammond are visiting their mother in Foxcroft, who has been very sick.——The weather has been very cold. The mercury was 30 degrees below zero on Monday morning. There was a light fall of snow on Tuesday.

ELECTION OF PENOBSCOT LOG DRIVING COMPANY DIRECTORS. The annual meeting of the Penobscot Log Driving Company was held yesterday forenoon at eleven o'clock, at the Penobscot Exchange. The President of the Company, Wm. H. Strickland, Esq., presided. The following board of last year was re-elected: Directors, Wm. H. Strickland, John Morison, Wm. T. Pearson, John Ross and James F. Kimball; President, Wm. H. Strickland; Clerk and Treasurer, Abram Moor. It was voted to let the drive to-day at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at the office of the Clerk. The indebtedness of the Company, as shown by the reports, is fast decreasing, amounting now to only about $6,000. Last year about $2,000 was expended on the North Twin dam, but no very extensive repairs will be made this year.

The Winter's Lumber Cut.

As will be seen in another place the Penobscot Lumbering Association held its annual meeting yesterday, bringing together a large number of the operators on the Penobscot waters, and in connection therewith a statement of the amount of lumber cut on the East and West Branches of the Penobscot will be of interest to our readers. From a compilation of figures which has been made it appears that on the West Branch, above Chesuncook Dam, sixteen concerns have cut 25,600,000 feet, employing 251 horses. The heaviest operators are Morison & Hunting who, with 60 horses, cut 5,000,000 feet. Below the Chesuncook Dam there were eight concerns besides those operating on the Sourdnehunk stream, the whole employing 171 horses and cutting 1[illegible],900,000 feet of logs. This makes the total cut for the West Branch 40,500,000, which is the nearest estimate which can be made, and the amount upon which the bids for driving the logs will be based. On the East Branch the figures show a total of 37,200,000 cut by twenty-eight concerns, with 340 horses and 12 oxen.

On the Passadumkeag waters the amount cut is estimated at 9,085,000 feet divided between forty-one concerns. The cut on the Mattawamkeag is set down at 20,000,000 feet, and on the Piscataquis at 25,000,000 feet, making a total cut of 135,000,000 feet, which is slightly below that of last year.

AMUSEMENTS.

Redmund-Barry.

This evening, the romantic drama entitled "Rene, the Huguenot Captain," will be given at the Opera House by the talented Redmund-Barry Company. There has been a large sale of seats. The following is from the Portsmouth, N. H., Chronicle of the 7th instant.

A large and refined audience occupied Music Hall Saturday evening, when "Rene, the Huguenot Captain," was presented by the Redmund-Barry Company. The play is one of the most pleasing of of the "romantic" class, there being all through it a vein of comedy sufficiently pronounced to prevent the more serious element from becoming oppressively gloomy to the audience; and everything comes out satisfactorily at the end. Wm. Redmund as the dashing and impulsive Huguenot Captain, and Mrs. Barry as the Duchess D'Armonville, the loving mother and high-minded if vengeful woman. The rest of the support was good, and the entertainment as a whole was what might have been expected from the reputation of the principal performers.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

February (Criminal) Term.

G. W. BROWN, Sheriff.
C. F. SWEET, Clerk.
RUEL SMITH, Reporter.

Tuesday, Feb. 15th.

The following business was transacted in the court this morning.

State vs. James Peters, for larceny of $75 from Mary Cyr, was sentenced to eighteen months in the State Prison.

State vs. James T. Martin, for assault and battery, was sentenced to six months to labor in the county jail.

Encouragement of Manufacturing.

The meeting at the Common Council room yesterday, called for the purpose of discussing means for encouraging enterprises, was quite largely attended by our citizens and a good degree of interest was manifested. Alderman Tobin presided. Father O'Brien opened the meeting by stating the object, and gave some of the statistics of the unemployed persons in this city. Remarks were made by Mayor Nealley, O. H. Ingalls, Esq., Hon. G. W. Ladd, Hon. Levi B. Patten, J. C. White, Esq., F. O. Beal, Esq., Hon. F. M. Laughton, and Mr. Fred S. Palmer.

The speakers all thought that something should be done to give the idle in our city employment, and favored any manufacturing enterprise that would accomplish this result. The plan of allowing the use of the old burying ground on the Hampden road, or a part of it, to any satisfactory manufacturing company, free for the first ten years, and afterwards for a nominal sum, was favored. A vote of the sentiment of the assembly was taken and it resulted in unanimously favoring the encouragement of manufacturing enterprises in this city. Mr. Tobin said that the committee would present the sentiment of the public, as expressed at the meeting, to the city government.

It was an old oriental doctrine that women have no souls. More enlightened philosophy concedes that they have purer, finer, more exalted souls than men. But they are too often contained in feeble, suffering bodies, which hamper and retard their full development. For all those painful ailments incident to the sex, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is the best specific in the world, and is sold under a positive guarantee that it will do all that is claimed for it. Price reduced to one dollar. By Druggists.

What is cold in the head? Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in perspiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine rhinitis, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which, when unchecked, is certain to produce a catarrhal condition—for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes seated and ends in obstinate catarrh. feb16 WFM&w

That Coming Book.

"Eastern Maine and the Rebellion."

There is soon to be issued a book with the above title, written by R. H. Stanley, of Bangor, containing a history of Eastern Maine men engaged in the war, together with re-written local scenes and incidents in Washington, Hancock, Penobscot, Piscataquis and Waldo counties.

There will also be published in this work reminiscences of noted military men and civilians, as well as much army correspondence that has never appeared in print.

Below are a few headings showing the nature of the contents of this grand work, which will be illustrated with portraits of prominent Maine military men:

CHAPTER.

The News From Sumpter—How They were Received in Maine—President Lincoln's Proclamation—Gen. Veazie offers $50,000 for the Defence of the Union and Constitution—A Grand Rally at Bangor—Dangers which Menaced Bangor Shipping—Panicky Times.

CHAPTER.

Capt. Emerson Raises the First Company—The First Recruiting Office in Eastern Maine—Riot in Baltimore and Washington in Danger—The First Company Elect Officers—The Grattan Guards and Bangor Light Infantry—Capt. Meinecke Opens a Recruiting Office—Doings of Bangor City Council—The Big Relief Fund and Who Gave it—Patriotic Women—Daniel Chaplin Raises a Company.

CHAPTER.

Enlistments Continue—The Ex-Tigers and Amory Associates—Home Guards Organize—Bangor may now Fearlessly Face a Frowning World—The Cavalry and the Sons of Temperance—Governor Washburn's Proclamation—Division and Regimental Orders—Maj.-Gen. Butler of Maine issues a Proclamation—States Rights Men—Timid Men and Copperheads—The Stars and Stripes Everywhere—Formation of the First and Second Regiments—Sketch of each Company of the Second Regiment.

CHAPTER.

The Second Maine in Camp—Preparations for a Southern "Tour"—Wheelwright & Clark Take a Contract to Uniform the Men—The Women Give Aid—Extracts from the Daily Press—What Each Man was Given—The Camp on Essex Street—Military Ardor in Business Circles—Red, White and Blue—Odd Advertisements—The Second Regiment Ordered to the Front.

CHAPTER.

Off for the Wars—Presentation of a Flag to the Second Regiment—Vice President Hamlin's Address—Scenes at the Station—Reception at Augusta—The Trip to New York—A Grand Reception There—On Board the "Cochicolas"—The Measles Break Out in Camp, at Willett's Point—A Row about the Enlistment Papers.

These headings indicate the character of the Book which will be interesting history to those in middle life, and recall much to those who participated in the stirring events. Every one should read—

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above, and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning, noon and evening in season for important mails.

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from [illegible] A. M. and from [illegible] P. M. Sundays from [illegible] A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carrier's department should be reported to the office.

IMMEDIATE DELIVERY.

Messenger boys are constantly in attendance to deliver letters with immediate delivery stamps, on arrival of all mails, and for local letters from [illegible] A. M. to [illegible] P. M. at which hour the office is closed. Persons depositing any letters will please pass them into the general delivery.

Letters arriving from West Sunday morning are delivered on arrival.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, samples of which may be seen at the Carrier's window, when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

The public are earnestly recommended to procure stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at [illegible] per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used in prepaying postage. The use of such stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamped Envelopes spoiled in directing are redeemed at this office.

A Sluggish Liver

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.

After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.

Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

INVIGORATED.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis.

RETRIBUTION.

BY "THE DUCHESS."

CHAPTER XIII.

Mr. Duran's house in Berkeley square is presided over by his aunt—a little, thin, wiry, kindly old lady, with corkscrew ringlets and a high perky nose. Her acquaintances are as old-fashioned as her curls, but it is amazing how many she has of them. They are of the staid, eminently respectable order, all able to count their generations and all "carriage people." Yet it might be admitted that sometimes Miss Duran pines for the young and frivolous, and would be glad to welcome them inside her nephew's doors—her doors, as they might be called, so little does he interfere with her arrangements, and so seldom does he show himself between 12 a. m. and 11 p. m.

On this particular Wednesday quite a stir and bustle of the thick silken skirts take place, as Gerald Massareene, smiling and gay, enters Miss Duran's drawing room. There is, in spite of the debonair manner that distinguishes him, and induces all these old young men to look askance at him, and grow green with envy, and that causes the quite old men to wink and nudge each other, and call him "a sad dog"—a suspicion of anxiety that renders his kind eyes melancholy, and makes him a favorite at once with all the gentle, elderly women.

He is a fashionable looking young man, exquisitely dressed, and is, in fact, such a departure from Miss Duran's drawing room, that he creates an immense sensation, that is only to be surpassed by the entrance of a lovely young woman ten minutes afterward, who sweeps up to Miss Duran with the most charming smile in the world on her beautiful face.

"Dear Miss Duran," she says, slipping her little gray clad hand into that of the astonished spinster, "we have been wanting to come and see you for such a time—auntie and I—but there have been so many other tiresome engagements. And, after all, it is better, is it not, to leave the best to the last!" this with a swift glance at Massareene that sets his heart a-beating. "Even now, we could not come together, there was some absurd crush somewhere, and we had promised to go, so I told auntie I wanted to see you even more than she did, so I packed her off to her afternoon and I came to me."

Her low trainante voice, her pretty smile, the gentle pressure of the little hand, all won Miss Duran's heart at once. She had met Millicent two or three times, but now she persuades herself that they have been good friends for many years. What a lovely creature! How nice of her to come to this dull old house just to see a stupid old maid! Dear, dear me, there were not many who would do that!

Meantime the "lovely creature" is taking her tea from Gerald Massareene's hands. Tea of an exquisite flavor and rich with country cream, sent up specially from the heart of Hampshire for Miss Duran's Wednesdays. Tea served in priceless old Crown Derby, before which the modern imitations might hold down their heads.

"Sugar?" asks Gerald in a society tone, and then, considerably lower, "my own darling!"

"Eh!" says Miss Grey in return to this impassioned address, with a startling promptitude that is rather dispiriting.

In truth having got here, no matter how, and so acknowledged to Massareene that she has thought it worth her while to give up for his sake one of the most brilliant concerts of the season, she is a little frightened, a little impatient and yet a good deal glad.

"Millicent," says Gerald, dropping into the chair near her, "that you have come at all is so much more than I dared hope for that I would now entreat you to let my joy continue by being kind to me for the short hour we may be together."

His tone is very sad, in spite of the joy he mentions. Old Miss Duran, looking kindly at the two young people who have descended into her midst, and cast such a cloud of sunshine upon the dull, stately drawing room, reads as clearly as though it were all in print before her that this young man—the son of her dead cousin—is breaking his heart for love of the pretty, slender girl staring so solemnly into her tea cup, and that the pretty girl is not altogether indifferent about it.

"Bless me! And I hear she is to be married to that nephew of Lucy Brand's! Well, to judge by her face, I should say her heart is not in it. Poor young things! Evidently they have entered into the blissful realms of love. Cupid's darts have found a lodging in their tender breasts!" Sometimes Miss Duran, in spite of the ringlets, indulged in flights of poetic fancy. "How romantic! How full of pathos! That dear boy!—why I can see him dwindling away before my eyes! Quite a wreck he is becoming, though art and his tailor may try to delude me. Well, I must see what can be done. Gerald, my dear, do you think Miss Grey would like to see that painting of your great-grandfather that adorns the west wall of the library? It is well worth a visit, I assure you, my dear Miss Grey. Do let Gerald persuade you to look at it. A masterpiece, I assure you. One of Lely's brightest efforts!"

"Come!" says Gerald, in a low entreating tone.

Millicent hesitates for a moment, and then, according to custom, is lost.

She rises, gives her cup to him to lay upon a table near, and with a bright smile and glance directed to her hostess follows him out of the room.

Although his spirits have risen almost beyond his control, Mr. Massareene behaves himself wonderfully until the hall is crossed and the library gained. Then, I regret to say, he considerably forgets himself. He throws honor to the winds, and taking Granit Boyle's fiancee in his arms, strains her to his heart.

"Darling of my heart!" whispers he, with a sigh of passionate gladness.

At Miss Grey's conduct on this occasion I am also bound to express regret. Instead of the indignation she should have shown, she simply pushes him away from her with a very lenient hand, and laughs a little.

"Was there ever such a bad boy!" says she, standing back from him with palm extended to keep him off. "Are you totally without grace!"

"On the contrary, I am filled with it! I have gained—you."

"Gained?"

"Millicent, will you tell me now that I am nothing to you?"

"Certainly not; you are always, as I hope, my very good friend!"

"I am not. I am your lover, or nothing!"

"It is not good for a woman to have two lovers."

"Call Boyle a lover? Pshaw!" says Mr. Massareene with fine contempt. "Compare him with me, and where are you?"

"Why here!" says she, laughing. And then all at once her gayety comes to an end, and her face clouds. "Alas!" cries she, "what is to be the end of it all?"

"St. George's, Hanover square," returns he, with undiminished courage.

"Yes; with Granit as bridegroom."

"With me, you mean. Sweetheart, why can you not break all these chains that bind you, and give yourself as your heart directs?"

Miss Grey has subsided into tears, and a big chair.

"If I only dare," sobs she from behind her handkerchief.

At this half admission Mr. Massareene's hope rises fortyfold.

"If you dared—what then?" he asks, kneeling beside her and possessing himself of one dainty hand.

"I might—learn—what happiness really means."

"With me, you mean?"

"Oh, Gerald!" whispers she; and then it is all over, and she is caught to his breast, and for a little while the world is forgotten by both.

Being the woman, she is the first to awake from the happy dream.

"It is madness!" she says, lifting her head and gazing at him with tearful eyes.

"Not if you will trust to me. Not if you are sure of that you honestly love me. Speak to me, Millicent! Why do you turn your head away? You do love me!"

At this she lifts her gaze to him.

"I wish I had never seen you," she says with trembling lips.

"That is a hard speech, my darling!"

"It is true, though. If I had never seen you, I might have been willing to conclude this contract with Granit. If I had never seen you, I would never have—"

"Go on."

"Loved you!"

She bows her head upon her hands and bursts into fresh tears.

Mr. Massareene draws her head down upon his shoulder.

"Don't cry like that, Millicent," says he. "It will all come right in the end. Something tells me so." Something tells him quite the reverse: but he would not be the true lover he is if he could not strain a point to please his beloved. "What we have got to do now is to think what is the first, best step to be taken."

"The first, best step will mean ruin."

There is a touch of impatience in her tone. Although she loves him, it is hard for her to give up the gilded loaves and fishes of fashionable life.

"It will not," retorts he stoutly; "it will mean emancipation—if you have the pluck to go through with it."

"Oh! emancipation!" says she disdainfully, though she is glad of his resoluteness. "All you Irishmen are mad about freedom! One would think you were a land leaguer the way you speak! I wonder you are not afraid to love one of the hated Sassenachs."

"I am not afraid of anything except your strength of mind. You are mine now, but will you be mine an hour hence?"

"If I were a man," says Miss Grey reflectively, "I should not choose to fall in love with a woman upon whom I could place no dependence."

"If I were a woman," responds he promptly, "I should know better than to marry one man when I loved another."

"Well, but you are not a woman," says she triumphantly.

"Neither are you a man," replies he. "That squares our accounts. Sweetheart," regarding her very gravely, "tell me at least that you will think seriously of my proposal."

"I am always thinking of it," returns she, sighing. "Oh! why are not you Granit."

"The gods forbid!" says he piously. "I am a better man as I stand, though no doubt a poorer one. Well, however the wind blows, I am a happier fellow to-day than I ever expected to be. I have heard from your own lips that you love me."

"Do not place too much confidence in that."

"You will not deny the truth of it, however!"

"No. It is true. You are more to me, Gerald, than any man I ever have met—than any man I ever shall meet."

Her eyes grow large and dim with tears. She holds out her hand to him.

"Strengthened by such an assurance, I will believe in nothing less than victory," replies he, in a clear, resonant voice, his face bright with a hope that at this moment has grown into a certainty.

Millicent, watching him, feels her heart grow sad. "Will not the weight of circumstances, of custom, prove too strong for him?"

"I must go home," she says, starting a little.

"Good by then for the present, darling," whispers he proudly. He draws her to him and looks down anxiously into her face. A question seems hovering on his lips. At last he gives it words. "Do—do you ever kiss him?" asks he in a jerky, vehement way that speaks of suppressed agony.

"Never!" returns she almost as vehemently.

She flushes crimson. Massareene's arms tighten round her, and an expression of unspeakable relief alters his face.

"I cannot tell you how often I have thought of that, how it has preyed upon me," he exclaims eagerly. "And after all, the torment I endured had no foundation!" He looks tenderly down upon her. "My love, you seem more mine now than ever!" Then his tone changes, and an accent of scorn unmitigated runs through it. Evidently his thoughts are wandering to some one absent. "What sort of a fellow was he at all!" says he, with a curl of his lips.

A faint smile breaks through the sadness of Millicent's face.

"Would you have had him different then?" she asks, with a slight return of her usual gayety.

"Different? Do you know," says he presently, "that I don't think I dislike him now half as much as I did five minutes ago!" Then pressing his cheek to hers, and speaking in a much lower tone, and rather shyly, "Millicent, will you be kinder to me than you are to him?"

"Have I not been kinder?" asks she, faintly.

"But kinder—kinder still!"

She lifts her face to his.

Health Talks.

EMOTIONALISM AND HYGIENE.

(Written for the Boston Journal.)

"While I was musing the fire burned, then spake I with my tongue:

"Thought begets feeling and feeling when right should beget action."

As the carrier pigeon and the bee circle about before flying in a straight line so our emotions are thoughts in motion and on fire, thoughts translated into impulses, but it is only as they strike out into the straight line of right act on that they are of any worth. Lift a steamboat out of the water and apply the steam, the result would be that the engine would soon tear itself in pieces for lack of the water to act against. So is it with mental and moral sensations. They must find legitimate vent in noble action, or they will soon wear out the mind and body. And in these times of intense thought, of investigation and invention, when the very atmosphere is surcharged with exciting impulses, people do well to guard themselves. We by no means would foster the stoical spirit. Only while our hearts beat in sympathy with the grand opportunities of our times, let us in "patience possess our souls." The writer was passing the Boston Court House the other day, and saw about fifty men and boys gathered around a noble horse which had calked his ankle and severed an artery, and was bleeding to death at the rate of about two quarts of blood a second. No one seemed to know what to do, or if they did they had forgotten it in their curiosity or fright. The writer professes no surgical skill, but I knew enough to call for a rope, and by a few twists with a stick above the wound the blood at once ceased to flow. It was then almost by compulsion that the horse was placed under the care of a veterinary surgeon who faithfully and successfully attended to the suffering animal. Precisely in this way will people look on to the suffering of humanity. They will hear lectures and even sermons, read books and weep and yet do nothing but acquire a morbid love of emotional excitement, simply for the passing exhilaration it affords. But such people receive in their mental and physical powers the recompense and reward of their own selfishness. But while emotionalism may easily be restrained from legitimate action, it will most surely in many cases find expression in wicked and debasing directions.

Herein lies the great danger of pernicious literature, and even of stories which, of themselves, may be harmless, and yet by constant and omnivorous perusal injure the mental and moral fibre of the mind. This is why the constant appeal of the dramatic stage to the emotions is weakening, even if there should be nothing demoralizing in the plays or the concomitants of the same. But what shall we say of those books and papers and plays which coin money out of the appeal to and stimulation of the basest passions of human nature? A certain free-lover some years since attempted to avoid the law against obscene literature, by collecting certain portions of the Bible and making a pamphlet out of them. But he found that what might restrain from vice, in its proper place and with its inspired context, was another matter when garbled and condensed. And the tract was legally and justly condemned. Enough poison could be extracted from the best of food to kill a man if taken alone. So crime must be exposed and rebuked; but when a newspaper becomes a filth-scavenger in order to increase its circulation and make money at the expense of the morals of our sons and daughters, and of the public generally, it becomes a crime. It was once customary to hang criminals in public, but for wise reasons it is no longer done. But why not? Why not have a public hanging on Boston Common every little while, with peanut stands, lemonade and bands of music to make the thing interesting and thus effective to the prevention of like crimes? We well know that we should soon have a nation of cut-throats if we pursued such a policy. Our papers can easily tell us the essential facts that such and such persons have been tried and condemned for different offences. But it is this subtle and satanic plea that in order to prevent crime every disgusting detail of every burglary, robbery and murder must be paraded before the people, till the public conscience is debauched and demoralized! There is no doubt but what the present epidemic of horrible crimes, and the future outlook, which is lurid with danger to our peace, and prosperity, owes its parentage largely to this cause. Such constant public parading of the details of crime has precisely the same effect on the minds and morals of the young, as public hangings, especially where there is glamor of romance and humor woven about the whole description. Such revelations may be called "Schools of Virtue," but they are in reality schools of vice, the devil's own training schools for like crimes in the future, when the criminal attempts to be a little more wicked and a little more shrewd than his predecessors!

Like slugging exhibitions, crime is becoming one of the fine arts, in which there is a competition that demons might envy! All our daily, and some weekly papers, are to some extent, we fear, involved in this matter. But how sad, sickening and horrible the fact that some papers, like the liquor dealers, make their wealth out of the debauching and destruction of human souls and bodies. No one thing, next to intemperance, so threatens the moral and physical health of the rising generation as the constant and alluring appeal to their lower appetites by a demoralized public press.

Some will turn from this subject with a guffaw of indifference and derision. But this is a matter that is not to be laughed down. The public have a few rights left as well as a handful of men who would undermine and destroy the virtue of a nation for the sake of a little money. Give us good men and we shall have a good government. Train up a generation of soft, sensual, easy going emotionalists and we shall be ripe for anarchy, murders, adulteries and every evil work. Like opium eating to such persons, nothing is real but the unreal; they must have either tragedy or comedy.

Some church-goers even take in the truth as they would drink a glass of soda, simply for the effervescence. They listen to the music and are moved by the eloquence of the preacher to tears, and while they extol the exercises they forget that only their emotions have been stirred, while the regnant will-power, like Samson, is asleep and a prey to every evil influence.
